Introduction

Reconciliation Framework

This City of Yellowknife Reconciliation Framework is the foundation for how the City will build respectful relationships with, and create a more inclusive representation of, Indigenous Peoples within the City of Yellowknife. It includes:

- Background on the City’s Reconciliation journey;
- Overarching goals and principles of the City’s Reconciliation initiatives; and
- How the City will engage Indigenous peoples, Indigenous governments, Indigenous organizations and the community at large on the City’s Reconciliation initiatives.

Reconciliation Action Plan

Complementing the Reconciliation Framework is the Action Plan. The Action Plan lays out concrete actions the City plans to take to move forward on our collective Reconciliation journey.

The Action Plan also includes a lists of actions the City has already taken and actions or ideas within the City’s mandate that the City received through the “Reconciliation: Starting the Conversation” discussions and from reviewing best practices in other municipalities which may become actions the City chooses to undertake in the future.

The Action Plan is a living document that will be refreshed and adapted to reflect the City’s work and priority areas across our community.

Background

The City of Yellowknife honours and recognizes the importance of First Nations, Metis and Inuit peoples to the development of our city. Indigenous peoples have contributed leadership, traditions, culture, values and vision – contributions that continue to be vital to our political, social, environmental, economic and cultural future.

The City of Yellowknife recognises that our settler footprint here is new, and we must honour the original residents and the significant contributions of Indigenous peoples. We are actively working towards reconciliation, balancing this with a common vision for our community and needs articulated by all our citizens. Other Indigenous people from Turtle Island (North America), European settlers and immigrant descendants; and new immigrants now contribute to the diversity and culture of Yellowknife – and are all active participants in the journey toward reconciliation.

Recognising the importance of respectful relations with YKDFN and other Indigenous stakeholders, the City of Yellowknife began to undertake actions, including joint Council meetings and the first Memorandum of Understanding entered into with the Yellowknives Dene First Nation. Since then, there has been an increasing acknowledgement by the City of the harms and ongoing effects of colonization on Indigenous people. There is also recognition that, as stated by the TRC, in order for reconciliation to happen “there has to be awareness of the past, an acknowledgement of the harm that has been inflicted, atonement for the causes, and action to change behavior.” Forging a new relationship based on recognition of Indigenous rights, respect, cooperation and partnership will require hard work, changes in perspectives and actions, and compromise and good faith, by all.

For the City, first steps towards Reconciliation have included adopting the Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s Calls to Action in July 2015, followed by adopting the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in October of that year. In 2019, City Council identified Reconciliation with Indigenous peoples as one of its core values in the 2019-2022 City of Yellowknife Strategic Plan.

During 2019, the City released the “Reconciliation: Starting the Conversation” document as a means to engage with the community in a concrete way, seeking input through coffee breaks, online and written comments, one-on-one engagement and community gatherings (including gatherings for Yellowknives Dene First Nation members in Ndilo and Dettah). There was a broad range of input which provides the foundation for this Reconciliation Framework and the Reconciliation Action Plan.

Goal and Principles

From the “Reconciliation: Starting the Conversation” discussions, the City pulled out the following goal and principles. This goal and principles need to be woven into all the work the City does.

GOAL: All of the City’s work on reconciliation needs to be directed at building positive, respectful relationships with Indigenous peoples and a welcoming community for all. Everything else flows to and from this goal.

PRINCIPLES: The Principles that support this goal include:

- Relationship building in all ways. Everything is based on relationships that need to be fostered including individual to individual, individual to institutions, and institution to institution.
- Involve Indigenous people. Indigenous people must be involved in developing actions/plans/events and the City needs to adapt to collecting input in ways Indigenous people provide it.
- Action. Taking action is necessary to show the City is serious about this work. Positive actions contribute to building relationships and trust.
- Learning/unlearning/relearning. The City needs to facilitate its representatives, staff and the community at large in learning about the history of this place, about the Yellowknives Dene, the North Slave Métis and all other Indigenous Peoples who call Yellowknife home, and about the ongoing effects of colonization.
- Special Recognition. Yellowknife exists on Chief Drygeese territory, the traditional lands Yellowknives Dene, which is also home to the North Slave Metis so special recognition is warranted while working towards reconciliation with all Indigenous peoples in Yellowknife.
- Participate. City representatives, City staff, and residents all need to participate, get involved and do their part. We are all Treaty people.
- Learn from mistakes. On the journey to reconciliation, there will be missteps and mistakes – there is no clear absolute path when forging a new foundation for relationship building and valuable learning comes from these experiences. Fear of making mistakes should not paralyze authentic action toward reconciliation.

TRC Principles. The goal and principles above will be further guided by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Principles of Reconciliation:

1. The United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples is the framework for reconciliation at all levels and across all sectors of Canadian society.
2. First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples, as the original peoples of this country and as self-determining peoples, have Treaty, constitutional, and human rights that must be recognized and respected.
3. Reconciliation is a process of healing relationships that requires public truth sharing, apology, and commemoration that acknowledge and redress past harms.

4. Reconciliation requires constructive action on addressing the ongoing legacies of colonialism that have had destructive impacts on Aboriginal peoples' education, cultures and languages, health, child welfare, administration of justice, and economic opportunities and prosperity.
5. Reconciliation must create a more equitable and inclusive society by closing the gaps in social, health, and economic outcomes that exist between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal Canadians.
6. All Canadians, as Treaty peoples, share responsibility for establishing and maintaining mutually respectful relationships.
7. The perspectives and understandings of Aboriginal Elders and Traditional Knowledge Keepers of the ethics, concepts, and practices of reconciliation are vital to long-term reconciliation.
8. Supporting Aboriginal peoples' cultural revitalization and integrating Indigenous knowledge systems, oral histories, laws, protocols, and connections to the land into the reconciliation process are essential.
9. Reconciliation requires political will, joint leadership, trust building, accountability, and transparency, as well as a substantial investment of resources.
10. Reconciliation requires sustained public education and dialogue, including youth engagement, about the history and legacy of residential schools, Treaties, and Aboriginal rights, as well as the historical and contemporary contributions of Aboriginal peoples to Canadian society.<sup>1</sup>

Indigenous and Community Involvement

The City will engage Indigenous peoples, Indigenous governments, Indigenous organizations and the community at large on the City's Reconciliation initiatives. Depending on the initiative, involvement may include any of the following:

- 1. External Indigenous guidance: Indigenous advisors and/or reference panels can inform and advise on reconciliation principles, plans, actions and approaches for engaging on and implementing the Reconciliation Framework, Action Plan and any specific initiatives.

- 2. Direct Dialogue with the Yellowknives Dene First Nation and the North Slave Métis Alliance: Depending on the initiative, there will be times when it is appropriate to engage directly with either or both of the Yellowknives Dene First Nation and/or the North Slave Métis Alliance.
- 3. Engagement with other Indigenous Governments and Organizations: depending on the initiative, the City may reach out directly to various Indigenous governments, Indigenous institutions and partners.
- 4. General Public Engagement: engagement from the general public – including Indigenous and non-Indigenous persons - may take place in various ways including: community gatherings, meetings, online surveys and questionnaires.
- 5. Public Suggestions on the City's Website: At any time members of the public can provide input related to Reconciliation through a public suggestion box on the website at www.yellowknife.ca/reconciliation, via email at reconciliation@yellowknife.ca, or to council at council@yellowknife.ca

Introduction

Reconciliation Framework

The City of Yellowknife Reconciliation Framework is the foundation for how the City works to build respectful relationships with, and create a more inclusive representation of, Indigenous Peoples within the City of Yellowknife.

Please refer to the Reconciliation Framework for:

- Background on the City’s Reconciliation journey;
- Overarching goals and principles of the City’s Reconciliation initiatives; and
- How the City will engage Indigenous peoples, Indigenous governments, Indigenous organizations and the community at large on the City’s Reconciliation initiatives.

Structure of the Action Plan

This Action Plan supports the Reconciliation Framework. The Action Plan lays out concrete actions the City plans to take to move forward on our collective Reconciliation journey.

This Action Plan includes:

1. Current Actions, which the City has committed to taking, description of the work, the partners the City intends to involve, and the expected timeline;
2. Past and Ongoing Actions, which the City has already taken; and
3. Possible Future Actions, which are within the City’s mandate that the City received through the “Reconciliation: Starting the Conversation” discussions and from reviewing initiatives taking place in other municipalities which might become actions the City chooses to undertake in the future.

Review and Additions

This Action Plan is a living document that will be refreshed and adapted to reflect the City's work and priority areas across our community.

This Action Plan will be reviewed and updated regularly, and will be presented to Council at a minimum of once per year.

Items will be added to the Current Actions based on ideas and feedback from the Yellowknives Dene First Nation, the North Slave Métis Alliance, other Indigenous governments, institutions individuals and organizations, and the community at large.

ACTION PLAN

Current Actions – 2021 and 2022

Since the dialogue that came out of the City’s ‘Starting the Conversation’ document in 2019, the City received many suggestions from a broad array of people. Although not all of the suggested actions are within the City’s mandate, many are and actions have been taken on a number of fronts. Since then, other suggestions have been made to the City and are reflected here as well. COVID has impacted the City’s ability to advance many strategies and action but we continue to seek to move forward on reconciliation in spirit and practice.

Past and Ongoing Actions

Over the years since the community of Yellowknife was established, the City has been evolving in our understanding of the culture, traditions and rights of Indigenous peoples whose traditional lands our community now inhabits. Historically, there have been many wrongs and more recently, a growing awareness of the importance of honouring, respecting and recognizing the rights of Indigenous peoples.

In the spirit of reconciliation, some actions that the City has undertaken include:
